New York, Dec. 16.—New angles to the baseball peace situation developed rapidly today and the efforts of organized and independent interests to get together on a harmonious business basis may result in far-reaching re-adjustments of the entire professional baseball structure. Many of the players, who see in the proposed peace agreement the passing of big salaries and long term contracts are demanding that their status be considered in any arrangement made between the various leagues.

Prominent diamond stars have intimated that the players, who they claim are the real foundation of the game, cannot sit idly by and see a return of conditions which prevailed in baseball before the advent of the independent organization. Although the players' fraternity has not as yet figured in the situation it is known that the leading members and officials of that body have been in close touch with the situation and are prepared to make a fight if their rights are threatened.

Close followers of the game both in playing and official positions are said to realize that a crisis is at hand and that there is more at stake than appears on the surface at this time. Certain federal league magnates have intimated that peace between the major leagues and their association is only the beginning of greater moves in baseball and the plans include far-reaching re-adjustments that may require several years to work out.

The injection of new interests and large amounts of capital into the National League is expected to greatly strengthen the senior organization.

The committee is composed of Ban Johnson, president of the American; C. A. Comiskey of Chicago; B. S. Minor of Washington, and Joseph J. Lannin of Boston.

James Gilmore, president of the Federal league and Harry F. Sinclair, owner of the Newark Federals, are ready to take part in the final conference to determine the future of baseball organization representing an

MUTILATED A XMAS TREE FOR THE BOY SCOUTS

(ASSOCIATED PRESS TELEGRAM)

Elyria, O., Dec. 16.—Chief of Police Stankard began a search today for persons who deliberately mutilated a fifty-foot pine tree which had been donated to the Boy Scouts here for a community Christmas Tree. The tree which was 50 years old and 50 feet high stood on the farm of Mrs. John Partsch, wife of a wealthy lumberman who was a candidate for mayor last fall. She gave it to the scouts. When Chief Stankard, who was chairman of the tree committee went to the farm to cut it yesterday he found that the top had been cut off and all the larger limbs partially or wholly severed, the evergreen being entirely ruined.

ROYALTY TO ATTEND THE WEDDING OF A FORMER LABORER

London, Dec. 16.—Patrick McGill, who began life as a laborer, came into fame as the author of "Children of the Dead End," and later distinguished himself by his bravery at Loos, will have a wedding in London that many aristocrats would envy. Among the guests invited to the luncheon that follows the ceremony are the Duke and Duchess of Hamilton, Viscount Esher, Lady St. Helier and Canon and Lady Dalton, with his publisher, Mr. Herbert Jenkins, as his best man.

McGill is known as the "navvy poet," the word "navvy" meaning locally a road laborer.

PACIFIC Coast Is at the Mercy of an Asiatic Attack at Any Time

STATES CALIFORNIA SENATOR

Standing Army of 1,000,000
Men Necessary

AGAINST ALL INVASIONS

Proposes Creation of Mobile Land Force and Military
Reserve of 200,000 Men—
Declares Enough Japanese
In California to Destroy Every Line of Communication From the East.

(ASSOCIATED PRESS TELEGRAM)

Washington, Dec. 16.—Senator Works, of California, told the senate today that a standing army of one million men would be necessary to defend the United States against possible invasions and declare that the Pacific coast was mainly at the mercy of Asiatic attack.

Senator Works spoke of the subject of National Defense but particularly to propose as a part of the scheme of the preparedness, the creation of a mobile land force and military reserve of two hundred thousand men at a cost of $50,000,000 a year for ten years.

The proposed enlisted men in civil and military reserve, would be settled according to the Work's bill with their families in comfortable five acre tracts provided by the government, supplementing ten months of productive work of reforestation, irrigation and flood prevention with two months of military training each year. The would-be soldier settlers under control of the secretary of the interior in times of peace and subject to orders of the war department in times of war.

Pointing to American occupation of Vera Cruz as an indication that war was a constant possibility, Senator Works said:

"Who can say after this exhibition of ungovernable passion, after this slaughter of the innocent citizens of another nation and the forcible invasion of its territory for so trivial a cause, that this nation does not need to prepare for war. If Mexico had not been weak from internal conflict, we would even then have been at war, for our forcible entry upon her territory was itself an act of war."

"There are enough Japanese in California now to man and destroy every line of communication from the east, isolating California and depriving her of all aid in troops and munition. Mexico is open to the entry of the Japanese, and once there, it is but a step across an invisible boundary into the United States."

"The plan to add one hundred thousand men to our present army is a dangerous step in the wrong direction. It would not avail a day to defend California against Japanese invasion. It would find difficulty in maintaining itself against the Japanese already in the state. If we are to be consistent we must either put the army on a war footing of at least a million men or turn to a more efficient means of defense."

Outlining the scope of his bill, Senator Works declared a million families could be recruited from the tenement districts of the great cities alone and settled in homestead tracts in the west at a less cost than is now spent in the annual flood waste of the Mississippi, and with two months energetic military training provide a reserve force ensuring preparedness against invasion, but also against the forces of flood and fire.

His bill would provide that the men should be enlisted for terms of five years. It would authorize the secretary of the interior to set aside public lands or to purchase lands and to construct water rights necessary to supply such lands. The bill would further direct that these garden farms be so located as to establish not less than an entire regiment in any community on adjacent homes.

WOULD SEND WAR INTO TERRITORY OF THE GREEKS

(ASSOCIATED PRESS TELEGRAM)

Zurich, Switzerland, Dec. 16.—Via London.—"The central powers cannot suffer the entente to create a second Calais at Saloniki," declares the Vienna newspaper "Neue Freie Presse."

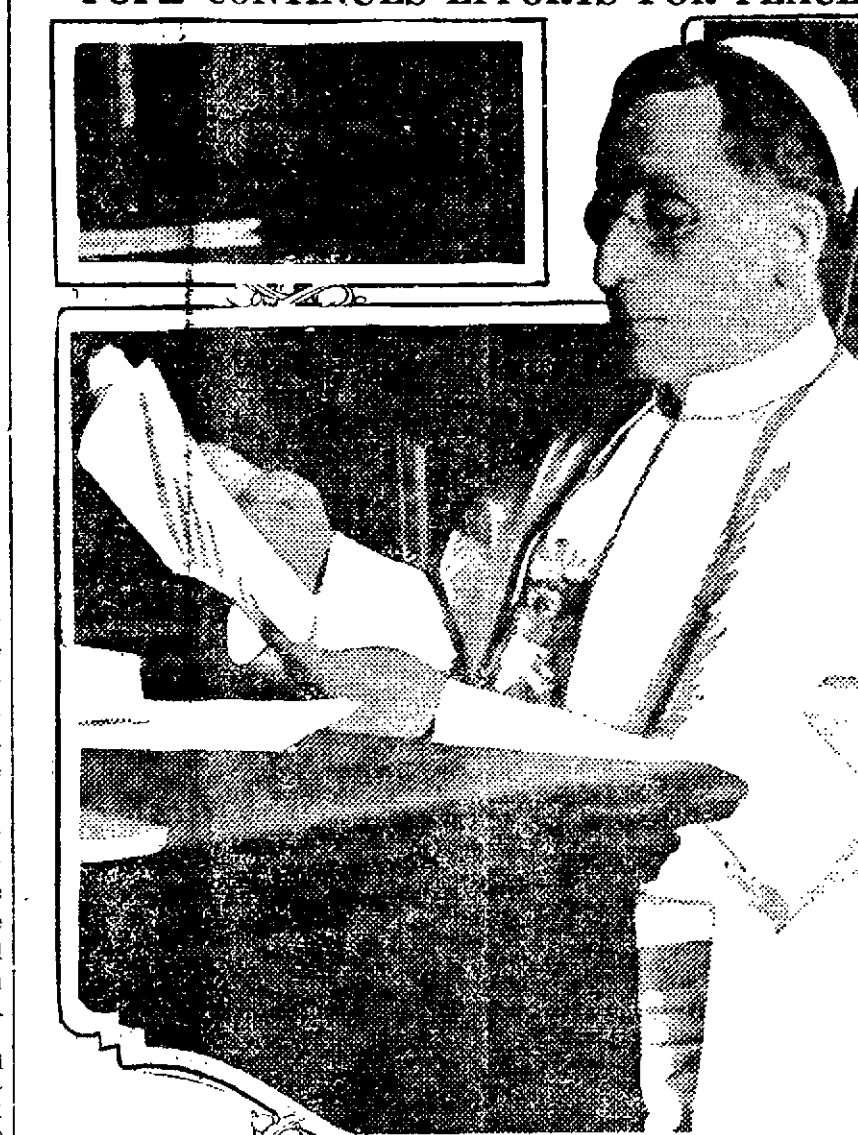

The paper argues that the logical consequence of the establishment of such a base would be to send the war to Greek territory, and adds:

"If the entente allies decide to remain at Saloniki, Greece is relieved of all obligations to defend her soil against the advance of the central powers. If Greece is too weak to defend herself, she will find a true friend in the Germanic league."

ROBBERS HOLD UP TRAIN AND MAKE ESCAPE

(ASSOCIATED PRESS TELEGRAM)

Mena, Ark., Dec. 16.—Southbound passenger train No. 1, on the Kansas City Southern railroad, was held up between Eagleton and Acorn, small stations near here early today, by three robbers. They blew open the safe in the express car. The loot, according to railroad officials, consisted of four registered packages of small value. The passengers were not molested.

The train left Kansas City at 1 o'clock yesterday afternoon for Fort Arthur, Texas. It was made up of two baggage and express cars, a mail car, smoker, one chair car and two sleepers.

The scene of the holdup is in the rugged mountain country of Arkansas. As the train approached a sharp curve in the road, C. E. Covert, engineer, saw a man standing on the track waving a lantern. Covert brought his train to a stop. As he did so the robbers covered him with revolvers and ordered him to uncouple the express and mail cars. Covert then was forced to run the detached part of the train two miles to a secluded part of the country.

The express car practically was wrecked by a heavy charge of explosive which the robbers applied to the safe.

The bandits sprang into the mail car and selected four packages from the registered pouch. Four rifles, carried for the protection of clerks, were picked up by the robbers as they fled.

MUST MAINTAIN PEACE IN CHINA

Tokio, Dec. 16.—Italy's ratification having arrived, Japan has forwarded to China the note from the entente powers relative to the re-establishment of the Chinese monarchy. The note of a solemn nature, but emphasizes the necessity of the maintenance of peace in China and the determination of the entente powers to protect their rights in the case of outbreaks.

AMERICANS ARE NOT IN DANGER OF EXECUTION

(ASSOCIATED PRESS TELEGRAM)

Washington, Dec. 16.—The thirty Americans detained by General Villa at Madera, Mexico, may be expelled from Villa territory, as the Spaniards were at Torreón a year ago, but are not believed to be in danger of execution, according to advices to the state department from El Paso, whose receipt was announced today. It is unlikely that the department will protest to the Carranza government the only recognized government in Mexico against their detention.

WAGES INCREASED ON AVERAGE OF $1 A WEEK IN OHIO

Columbus, Dec. 16.—Union wages in Ohio were higher on May 15, 1915, than one year before; five-sixths of the 18,000 workmen receiving increases got them by peaceable conferences and agreements with employers while one-sixth got them by striking. These facts are shown in a report made public today by Fred C. Croxton, chief statistician of the state industrial commission.

The average increase was about $1 a week. This applies only to those receiving higher pay, which was about one-fourth of the 75,000 union workmen covered by this report. Those who secured increases by conferences and agreements with employers were 15,000 and 3,000 got higher pay by striking.

Lima was the only city which showed no appreciable increases in union wages, in Mr. Croxton's report.

The increase in rates of wages between May 15, 1914 and May 15, 1915, in Newark, according to Mr. Croxton, was as follows:

Outside wiremen, linemen, from $2.90 per day in 1914 to $3 per day in 1915; increase 10 cents per day.

Outside wiremen, foremen, from $2.15 per day in 1914 to $2.25 per day in 1915; increase 10 cents per day.

Painters, from 25 cents an hour in 1914 to 40 cents an hour in 1915; increase five cents per hour.

Plumbers, from 33 2-3 cents per hour in 1914 to 50 cents per hour in 1915; increase 16 2-3 cents an hour.

Sheet Metal Workers, from 33 1-3 cents an hour in 1914 to 37 1-2 cents an hour in 1915; increase 4 1-6 cents an hour.

President Wilson and Secretary Lansing Awaiting Official Translation of Text from Vienna Foreign Office—Will Decline to Discuss the Torpedoing and Shelling of the Ancona by an Austrian Submarine

WASHINGTON OFFICIALS ARE RESERVING COMMENT

Believe, However, That Austrian Admiralty's Admission That Ancona Was Sunk While Passengers Were Still On Board Leaves Little Room for Discussion of Secretary Lansing's Contention That Commander of Submarine Violated Principles of International Law—Text of the American Note Which is Responsible for the Gravity of Present Situation and May Precipitate a Crisis.

(ASSOCIATED PRESS TELEGRAM)

Washington, Dec. 16.—Austria's reply to Secretary Lansing's note on the Ancona, is regarded, on the basis of the unofficial reports received today from London and Amsterdam, as wholly unsatisfactory, unacceptable and disappointing to the United States. Diplomatic relations between the two countries may safely be described as standing at the breaking point.

President Wilson and Secretary Lansing are reserving comment until they have the official translation and text at hand but it is stated authoritatively that the United States will enter into no exchange of opinion as the Vienna foreign office is represented as suggesting and absolutely will decline to discuss the facts of the torpedoing and shelling of the Ancona by an Austrian submarine with loss of American lives.

No official word had reached the state department today that the Austrian reply had been delivered to American Ambassador Penfield, but the news dispatches containing excerpts, were taken in official quarters as sufficient evidence that the rejoinder is on its way to Washington.

From such part of the unofficial text as is contained in the news dispatches, officials considered the reply vague in many respects but they were not prepared to decide whether that was caused by the translation.

The suggestion for an exchange of opinions, the virtual request for a bill of particulars of the American complaint against the action of the submarine commander and the proposal for a discussion of the facts were clearly set forth however, in the official text and officials of the state department who have knowledge of its policy in the crisis unhesitatingly declared that all would be refused. It was made clear that the United States does not propose to enter into a diplomatic discussion which would have possibilities of being prolonged almost indefinitely.

The outline of the reply was disappointing because some American officials had been led to believe by predictions from Germanic quarters that it would be favorable, or at least would purpose something which the United States could accept.

As Secretary Lansing based the representations in his note upon the official statement of the Austrian admiralty itself, American officials are at a loss to understand where there is much room for discussion of facts.

News from Vienna recently that the submarine which sunk the Ancona was missing led some officials to believe that a new element had been introduced into the dispute, which has promise of carrying some weight. That point, however, seems to have been disregarded in Austria's answer so far as officials can judge from the unofficial text received here.

American officials believe that taking as a basis the official admission of the Austrian admiralty that the Ancona was shelled, torpedoed and sunk while passengers still were aboard, there would be little room for discussion of Secretary Lansing's contention that the commander violated the principles of international law and humanity and that it was wanton slaughter of defenseless non-combatants.

Officials pointed out that a thoroughly unsatisfactory and irresponsible reply from Austria would bring diplomatic relations between the two countries to a crisis because the closing words of Secretary Lansing's note which declared that "good relations between the two countries rest upon a common regard for law and humanity," and that Austria, appreciating the gravity of the case "will accede to its (the United States) demand promptly."

Specifically the note demanded denouncing the sinking of the Ancona as an "illegal and indefensible act," the punishment of the commander who "perpetrated the deed," and the payment of an indemnity to these Americans who suffered. The note stands as the most vigorous of all the American correspondence of the war and was not equalled even by the note at the close of the submarine controversy with Germany.

Austria's diplomatic relations with the United States since the recall of Ambassador Dumba for his connection with plots to cripple American munitions plants have been maintained by the embassy here with Baron Zewelidnek as charge d'affaires.

Baron Zewelidnek had no official dispatches from Vienna but after reading the news dispatches he went to the state department and conferred with Secretary Lansing. Previously the baron had inquired what the attitude of the United States would be toward an unacceptable reply. Today, on the basis of the news dispatches the charge and the secretary discussed the situation informally.

(ASSOCIATED PRESS TELEGRAM)

Washington, Dec. 16.—Early today the state department had no official word from Vienna whatever on Austria's reply to the Ancona note. Secretary Lansing read the news dispatches containing excerpts of the Austrian rejoinder but reserved comment until he had received the full official text from Ambassador Penfield.

It was made clear authoritatively however, that if the whole text of the reply was in the same tone as the cable extracts, it would be regarded by the United States as unsatisfactory. It was made plain that the United States will not accept the suggestion of entering into diplomatic correspondence which may be prolonged.

The official overnight dispatches contained no indication that the reply had been delivered to Ambassador Penfield or that it was on its way to the United States.

Official telegrams, however, have been generally behind the news dispatches in most of the diplomatic exchanges with the Germanic powers because of difficulties of transmission and the long and intricate work of the coding and de-coding.

President Wilson read the outline of the reply as contained in the dispatches, as he reached the executive offices, but there was no indication of how he regarded it. It was known however, that both the president and Secretary Lansing regarded the cable extracts while they might be indicative of the whole tone of the reply, as too fragmentary to warrant comment.

In official circles the general impression prevailed that the tenor of the cable extract did not seem to forecast a favorable tone of the reply as a whole, still in the absence of full text, final opinion was reserved. Until the full text is received and laid before the president, the situation may be described as still in suspense. Those officials closest to the president still are of the opinion that a thoroughly unsatisfactory reply from Austria will endanger the continuance of diplomatic relations between the two countries.

One official of the state department who spoke with full knowledge of its policy declared positively that the United States would not enter into any exchange of opinion as Austria's reply suggests, and would absolutely refuse to enter into any discussion of the facts.

Officials considered that the wording of the cable excerpt was vague, but they felt in that connection the possibility that it may have been made vague in translation. That

INVITE NEXT CONVENTION TO NEWARK

Backed by telegrams from Mayor Bigbee, the Merchants' Association, the Board of Trade and Newark business men, Licking County Grange delegates to the state Grange meeting at Elvira today went into the convention to make the last fight to secure the 1916 meeting for Newark.

Mayor Bigbee's and other telegrams urged the state grangers to come to central Ohio's most progressive city and its advantages were set forth in glowing terms. Attention was called to the splendid railroad facilities, hotel and restaurant accommodations, the city's central location geographically, etc.

The honor of entertaining the state grangers, the strongest organization of farmers in the state has never come to Newark and the city is anxious to play the role of host to these substantial citizens of the commonwealth.

The music lovers of Newark will be especially pleased to know that the Ohio State Glee Club has been engaged to give a concert in Newark next Tuesday night under the auspices of the Y. M. C. A. The club is on its way to Pittsburgh for a concert there Dec. 22nd in the Carnegie Hall and as Tuesday was an open date they were induced to stop here. The club has a very pleasing program of 12 songs and features as a second part "The Folies of 1914." A varied program consisting of music ranging from classical to popular has been arranged and rehearsals have been held every night for the past three weeks.

A special feature of the concert is the Union String Quartet which made a concert tour to the Panama Exposition this past summer. These four young men were offered a year's scholarship on Keith's tour but as they are all serious they thought more of their college education and turned down the offer.

The club's itinerary for the holidays will include Mt. Sterling, Pittsburgh, Youngstown, Fairport, Canton, Cincinnati, Dayton and Hamilton. The trip will end December 31.

This is the first appearance of the State University Glee Club in Newark for several years and promises to be an excellent opportunity of hearing a college glee club of the highest type. The concert will be given in the Y. M. C. A. auditorium and tickets will be on sale at the Y. M. C. A. The Y. M. C. A. will receive one-half the proceeds.

LARGE CROWD IN ATTENDANCE AT THE REVIVAL

The special evangelistic services which are being held in the Mt. Hermon United Brethren church in southeastern McKean township drew the largest crowd last evening of any service yet held.

Rev. White preached a strong sermon on "The Value of the Soul" and at the close several held up their hands for the prayers of the church and one young man came forward.

The song service led by Mr. Larson, is one of the features of the meetings and this evening the male chorus from the Newark Tenth street church will be present and sing.

Large post cards, with photos of the leaders and church were given to all present last evening, for distribution in the vicinity, advertising the meetings, which will continue until Dec. 26.

Not for many years has such interest in religious affairs been manifested in the community surrounding the church.

The Mt. Hermon church has recently been repaired and is far above the average country church in appearance, both inside and out.

The crowds will increase as the nights are light and the roads like mid-summer in condition.

The church is heated and lighted by natural gas and is always brilliant and cheery for those who attend, a gas light has been installed in the front yard, making it convenient for those who come in vehicles.

LAST MEETING OF EVANGELIST AT CENTRAL CHURCH

The last meeting of the series of evangelistic services at the Central Church of Christ last evening was in every respect a great meeting. The house was practically filled. Five persons were baptized at the beginning of the service. The people sang with enthusiasm the songs they had learned to love. Mr. Leigh sang again, by request, the song entitled, "Shadows." Evangelist Brown preached upon the subject of "Heaven." He set forth the idea, as his own opinion, merely, that heaven will be some planet or world which is the center of the universe, around which all other heavenly bodies revolve. He stated emphatically that he believed we will know each other in heaven. He closed the sermon with a beautiful plea for heavenly living here on earth. "Fourteen persons responded to the invitation of the Gospel. The meetings have resulted in about 70 additions to the church. Many others will be added as a result of the new impetus that has been given to the church. A thank offering of about $400 was given to the evangelist and his helpers. Mr. Brown also secured the enrollment and a pledge of financial support of the church for 1916, from a large number of the members. An every-member-canvas will be conducted by the men of the church next Sunday afternoon in order to visit those who have not, up to that time, handed in their pledges.

SWANK TIRED OF BEING GOAT FOR THE POLICE

"The county jail got no order of release, either by telephone or in writing, for J. L. Clark," said Sheriff Swank this morning to the Advocate. Police Chief Sheridan claims that he telephoned to the county jail ordering Clark's release the same day he received a money order from Co-shoon, for the amount of the man's fine.

Sheriff Swank states that he took the matter up with Mrs. Frank Brown, who is in charge of the office at the county jail and that she declares she received no telephone order, for the man's release.

"Releasing prisoners on telephone orders is only a matter of accommodation anyway," said Sheriff Swank. "The law provides that we must have a written order of release. It has been the practice to release prisoners sentenced by the mayor, on orders by phone from the mayor or the chief. Phone orders are followed up by securing from them the written order. I have on file at the office at the county jail written orders for the release of all other prisoners, but none for Clark."

"Clark was received on the 23rd of November. The chief claims his release was ordered on the 27th. Deputy Sheriff Brown got all the written release orders up to the 14th of this month but Clark's is not among them."

"I'm getting tired of being made the goat of the mistakes made in the police department," the sheriff concluded.

Visiting Nurse Fund.

This fund will be used for the sick, and in consultation with the Visiting Nurse Chapter, The King's Daughters. We visit every case that is reported to us as well as those we discover. We provide such comforts and service as their physicians advise and our means will allow.

We provide a nurse where needed, if relatives cannot afford such help, or perform the help themselves. But we feel that in every case where there are relatives they should make every reasonable effort to care for their sick. We also encourage the old time kindly ministry of neighbors. Let us not forget that the wells of humanity sympathy still flow and every neighborhood is doubly blessed where the spirit of the chief servant prompts service.

Then let all who read this call report to us every case of need where the service of relatives and neighbors is insufficient. Let us also be neighbor to those who suffer and are in need. We will gladly provide service and all the comforts which the treatment requires to the extent of our ability.

For this we need money and supplies. Bed linen and garments for the sick; if partly worn and soft they are all the better; bandages, towels, hot water bags, foods, etc. We have some cases now where bedding and linen are much needed.

Remit all gifts intended for this fund and send all supplies direct to Associate Charities of Newark, room 14, Hibbert & Schaus Bldg.

Granville

(Special to Advocate.)

Granville, Dec. 16.—A splendid program was rendered by the Granville Women's Music Club Wednesday afternoon December 15, at the home of the club secretary, Mrs. C. D. Coons, the president, Mrs. W. P. Ullman, conducting the business session which preceded the musical program. Before beginning the work scheduled for the afternoon she called upon Mrs. Dorothy Swartz Babb for two vocal solos which were to have been given on December 1, an engagement which could not be kept owing to Mrs. Babb's absence on her honeymoon journey. Mrs. Babb, however, fulfilled her obligations to the club in a most charming manner by returning for yesterday's meeting and singing in fine voice and exquisite expression, "I Wept, Beloved" by Hue, and "Psyche" by Paladilhe.

"Current Events" was given by Miss Eva Wright. The piano work was notable. Beethoven, Wagner, Liszt and Lassen absorbing the serious attention of the members and guests. A brief analysis by the leader Mrs. Case, of the Pastoral Symphony, the only one of this master's works avowedly inspired by nature, was followed by the rendering of parts of several of the movements in artistic style by Mrs. White, Mrs. Susan Barden, Miss Eva Wright and Miss Faye Hulshizer. "Elsa's Dream," Wagner-Liszt and "Crescendo"—Lassen, were played in masterly style by Mrs. J. S. Jones. "Sonata Pathétique"—Beethoven—was beautifully interpreted by Miss Ruth Rockwood, who gave only the first two movements of this familiar classic. The singers were in fine voice and their offerings were invaluable additions to the sum total of enjoyment. Mrs. Marion Rose Johnson sang two numbers new to most of the audience with her accustomed charm and finish. "The Christmas Carol of the Birds," by Chaminade. Miss Blanche La Ferre in her exquisite contralto sang "Noel," by Holmes. Mrs. C. D. Coons and Miss Allert Chrysler both noted for soprano voices of purity of tone and finish of execution gave a duet, "Break Diviner Light," by Alliston, and Mrs. Rohrer's chorus rendered the concluding numbers in most effective manner. "Christmas Carol" by Shelley, and "The Elves" by Bornsheim completely captured the audience as sung by Mrs. Fred Seymour, Mrs. J. W. Rohrer, Mrs. R. S. Colwell, Mrs. Millard Brelsford, Mrs. K. H. Eschman, Mrs. C. L. White, Mrs. J. D. Thompson and accompanied by Miss Hulshizer.

Following the program a social hour was enjoyed and refreshments were served by Mrs. C. W. Chamberlain, Mrs. Fred Seymour and Mrs. Susan Barden. Guests of the afternoon were Mrs. W. R. Hundley, Mrs. W. A. Chamberlain, Mrs. August Odebrecht, Mrs. Anna Campbell, Miss Laura Herrick and Mrs. David Beveridge of Petoskey, Mich.

Some of the business men of the town not to be outdone by the generous efforts of the King's Daughters to bring Christmas cheer to many homes in the community have been out with a paper to raise funds with which to co-operate with the Daughters in enlarging their field of usefulness. The subscription was headed by Mrs. J. S. Jones with $50 and last night some $150 had been pledged for the purpose. The King's Daughters have nothing to do with the paper. They worked hard for the $154 they received from theirazaar, but are glad to co-operate with the men of the town. There will be a meeting in their rooms in Linden flats this evening to which the men are invited for a conference as to ways and means best adopted for bringing the greatest good to the greatest number.

Mrs. Walter Livingston and Mrs. George Stuart delightfully entertained about 20 ladies, matrons and maids this afternoon at the Livingston home in West Broadway, complimentary to Miss Allert Chrysler whose engagement to Mr. Roe Mor-

IF KIDNEYS AND BLADDER BOTHER

Take a glass of Salts to flush out your Kidneys, and neutralize irritating acids.

Kidney and Bladder weakness result from uric acid, says a noted authority. The kidneys inter this acid from the blood and pass it on to the bladder where it often remains to irritate and inflame, causing a burning, scalding sensation, or setting up an irritation at the neck of the bladder, obliging you to seek relief two or three times during the night. The sufferer is in constant dread, the water passes sometimes with a scalding sensation and is very profuse; again, there is difficulty in voiding it.

Bladder weakness, most folks call it, because they can't control urination. While it is extremely annoying and sometimes very painful, this is really one of the most simple ailments to overcome. Get about four ounces of Jad Salts from your pharmacist and take a tablespoonful in a glass of water before breakfast, continue this for two or three days. This will neutralize the acids in the urine so it no longer is a source of irritation to the bladder and urinary organs which then act normally again.

Jad Salts is inexpensive, harmless, and is made from the acid of grapes and lemon juice, combined with lithia, and is used by thousands of folks who are subject to urinary disorders caused by uric acid irritation. Jad Salts is splendid for kidneys and causes no bad effects whatever.

Here you have a pleasant, effervescent lithia-water drink which quickly relieves bladder trouble.

Style and Service.

The tendency of women to wear shoes with very high heels, tilting forward in disregard of health and comfort, and with pointed toes, has been marked for many years. The many men who at various periods have worn "toothpick" shoes show that the masculine element is not exempt from the delusion that foot-wear producing misshapen feet is beautiful. Of late years among men there is a greater tendency toward wearing wide toed shoes that conform better to the foot and no not cramp the toes.

A good many women feel the same way. A teacher in a prominent girls' college recently remarked that nearly all the girls in that institution were wearing wide toed sensible shoes this season.

But an article in a newspaper that has just come to hand from a city having large shoe factories, suggests that the health fad in women's foot-wear has not gone so far as it might. The high brow college girls may want shoes the shape of their feet. But not the society buds. The reporter who wrote the article referred to, after making a round of the shoe factories reached the conclusion that the principal demand among women was for a stylish shoe regardless of either service or comfort.

It is commonly remarked at summer resorts, that women will wear for rough walks in the country, shoes with high heels and pointed toes in which their ankles frequently turn. They pick their way in a tiresome and laborious manner, but pride no doubt is even ample compensation.

The laws of nature can not thus be disregarded without penalty. Frequently it is the children who pay the price, which seems unfair. The heritage from generation of people who have insisted on wearing stylish shoes regardless of common sense, is found in the great number of specialists on foot diseases, who are securing an ample practice all over the country.

It is all right for the railroads to push ahead the freight traffic, but there are some travellers who have reached the conclusion that passenger trains should not be made to wait on the side tracks while the freight trains go ahead.

The scenes witnessed in many city stores about now are not a lot of our women friends trying to practice the football forward pass, but merely crowding up to the counter to get their Christmas presents.

Leading educators have much to say about the necessity of training the eye and the hand by industrial teaching, which seems to be accomplished admirably by practice at shooting the basket ball into the basket.

While Red Cross seals are not accepted in place of stamps, some people seem to think the post office may send them along and collect postage due from the recipient.

When the price of gasoline doubles there aren't less automobiles run, but you needn't think you can advance the price of pew rents 25 per cent.

Some people having resolved to shop early, will make great efforts to buy their gifts at least three days before Christmas.

With all the bills being introduced it does not seem likely that the boys of Congress can be got out of the trenches by July 4.

Don't get gay. Many a fellow has been assaulted because he was too fresh.

Tainted Patriotism.

(New York World.)

In 1862 a committee of citizens called at the White House to express its dissatisfaction with President Lincoln's conduct of the war. After listening patiently to the complaints of the delegation, President Lincoln said:

"Gentlemen, suppose all the property you were worth was in gold, and you had put it in the hands of Blondin to carry across the Niagara River on a rope. Would you shake the cable, or keep shouting after him. Blondin, stoop a little more—go a little faster—lean a little more to the north—lean a little more to the south? No; you would hold your breath as well as your tongue, and keep your hands off until he was safe over. The government is carrying an enormous weight. Untold treasures are in their hands. They are doing the best they can. Keep silence, and we will get you safe over."

President Wilson could well answer his critics in the words of President Lincoln. Most of the criticism of the Wilson administration resembles the criticism of the Lincoln administration in that it is small and partisan and aimless. It resembles the criticism of the Lincoln administration, too, in that most of it comes from second and third rate men and newspapers.

Practically nobody who rails against the president has a good policy of his own to present. Even the most rabid of the critics is afraid to come out and frankly declare for war. Back of most of the assaults is a petty and childish desire to find fault for the sake of finding fault. Whether the president has made mistakes in handling the foreign affairs of the United States we do not know, nor can anybody know at this time. He has succeeded thus far in keeping us out of war without surrendering any of our rights under international law. Whether his policy works out well or ill can be determined only by its ultimate results in the light of history. But one thing is certain. There is no record of a serious blunder on the part of any president of the United States who combined patience with high principle.

It is significant that Americans who are best qualified to criticize the foreign policies of the president have done nothing to embarrass him. Former President Taft is an avowed supporter of the president. Elihu Root, one of the ablest secretaries of state the country ever had, has never allowed partisanship to interfere with patriotism. The same may be said of Philander C. Knox, who was Mr. Root's successor as secretary of state. It may be said of most public men who are in the habit of appealing to public reason rather than public passion.

Events over which we have no control have placed the United States in a critical position in respect to Germany and Austria. The situation is not of our seeking nor of our making, and the outcome may depend quite as much upon the sanity and loyalty of the American people as upon anything the president may do. Private opinions are pitifully unimportant in comparison with the grave issues that are at stake.

The sort of patriotism that is insufficient to stand together and uphold the hands of the government at such a time as this is tainted from the start. Heaven help the country that had to plunge into war with that kind of citizenship behind it!

Peace Outlook Not Bright.

(Philadelphia Record)

When the German chancellor addressed the Reichstag on the victories Germany had won it was natural enough that he should be silent on the severe reverses she has suffered, but in considering the possible terms of peace these must be weighed in order to obtain a fair balance. So far as the allies are concerned, the crushing of Belgium and Serbia, which has been the chief Teutonic military exploit, means, of course, no weakening of their strength, and though this process has been very painful to the gallant Belgians and Serbians, it can have no preponderant influence in determining the ultimate result. Against the achievement must be set the absolute elimination of German commerce from the seven seas and the loss of the colonial possessions upon which she had spent so much treasure. Germany cannot prosper industrially without access to the ocean, but France, Great Britain and Russia could exist very comfortably, even though Belgium and Serbia lost their freedom.

When proper importance is given to the complete annihilation of Germany as a naval power, it can be seen that thus far there has been a stalemate in the war and that neither side can claim any overwhelming advantage. It, therefore, sounds much like bluffing when the chancellor says:

"Our foes must tell themselves one thing—the longer and bitterer they wage this war against us, the greater will be the necessary guarantees."

By "necessary guarantees" indemnities are apparently meant. But why is Germany entitled to indemnities any more than Great Britain, which has the control of the sea and has so far suffered comparatively little from the war? Germany has not defeated her and does not hold a foot of British soil. Great Britain, on the other hand, is steadily absorbing practically all of Germany's African colonies.

There is nothing in the words of von Bethmann-Hollweg or Premier Asquith that holds out any hope of peace in the near future. Neither side has scored decisively, and apparently neither will be satisfied until the final outcome becomes clearer. The issue is still as uncertain as it was in August, 1914.

1912 Is Recalled.

Ex-President Taft, who, apart from the Philippines, views most public questions from a non-partisan standpoint, indorses President Wilson's plans of national defense. T. Logothete Roosevelt condemns them. The situation is thus not unlike that of 1912, when Messrs Taft and Wilson found each other much more congenial than the Bull Moose. It seems altogether likely that the result of the present campaign for preparedness will repeat that of the Presidential struggle of three years ago. The Colonel did not win then, and he will not now.—Philadelphia Record.

Hoke Smith's Cotton.

A New Orleans dispatch says that Senator Hoke Smith stated recently that he had received an offer for 1,000,000 bales of cotton at 16 cents from a German concern. Naturally he may be expected to speak feelingly in the Senate on the subject of the freedom of the seas, but he cannot hope to compel the allies to revise their contraband list nor can he make even 1,000,000 bales of cotton weigh as much as 117 Americans dead.—Washington Herald.

Wooden Shell Town.

Sooner or later the wooden shell town gets its fire lesson. Hopewell, built within a period of six months, a pine-board and tar-roof city, went up in smoke in a single night. Now, there is to be a fire-proof Hopewell, so we are told. Evidently we shall evolve the fireproof town. We have evolved it already, theoretically, but, as yet, we are a long way from putting theory into practice. We have not yet quite sawed up our primitive forests into building material, and wood being the cheapest and readiest commodity out of the hollow cubes and parallelograms which we call homes may be constructed, we continue to use wood, in places where the laws do not forbid it, regardless of the fire risk. Sometimes it takes as many as three successive sweeps to teach a wooden town that it is in danger of going up in smoke every time a high wind blows.—Baltimore American.

Mince Pie.

Of course there is such a thing as mince pie without the booze habit, but it is enough to drive a man to drink. There are perfectly respectable mince pies with which no one wishes to associate. The mince pie which is addicted to booze is devilish but alluring. Yet there are some outside of Colorado who accuse all mince pies of being diabolical, so that the banishing of the pie from Colorado may be but the beginning of a nationwide ban on this reprobate, said to have originated among the Puritans of New England.—Salt Lake Tribune.

Rippling Rhymes

Restoration.

In Europe, when the war is done, the harried land will smile once more; the churches, sacked by howling Hun, some gifted genius will restore. The ruined shrines will rise again, to cheer the pious passer-by; but who'll restore the brave young men, who left their happy homes to die? Again the rich and fruitful vine will grow on France's sunny hills, where now the lethal bullet whistles a requiem for the men it kills. Strong, patient hands will bring again the blood to all the country; but who'll bring back the fine young men, who bade their girls farewell, and died? For all the wreckage do not grieve—a few years hence 'twill be a dream; once more the busy looms will weave, the mill-wheel paddle in the stream; again the sage will take his pen, and art will gain its former stride; all will come back—except the men, who kissed their mothers' lips and died. All ruined things will be restored; the sunken ships will be replaced; and there will be an endless horde of men in soldiers' trappings laced; the bear will mutter in its den, the lion roar in angry pride; but gone forever are the men, who left their fathers' roofs and died.

DOORS ARE OPEN TO ALL

DURING FARMER'S WEEK
You are not too old to go to college. There is one school that you can still go to, even though you never went to any other. You can take your wife, son, daughter, grandson, son-in-law, or sweetheart, too, if you like. Farmers' Week, held at Columbus January 31 to February 4, will give you five days of instruction on any subject of farming that you want. Sixty popular lectures, many demonstrations and moving pictures all combined into a three-session, five-day course, will provide instruction on every phase of agriculture, including poultry culture, soil fertility, apple growing, livestock raising and dairying.

Farmers' Week is the dream of President Thompson of the Ohio State University, who wants to give the farmers of Ohio a chance to attend the university which they support. He has excused all classes of 6000 students in engineering, medicine, education, pharmacy and law, so that the farmers can come to college. Practically all the buildings on the campus of the university, costing $5,000,000 will be utilized for the event.

"We want you to come, because we have the best program possible. The farmers made Farmers' Week the biggest event for boosting agricultural conditions in Ohio last year. So we have decided to offer double the advantages this year. Now you can't afford to stay away," says Clark S. Wheeler, director of extension work at the university, who is in charge.

It is open to the old and young. Last year a man of 83 sat beside a boy of 12 at the lectures. No expense is attached to the lectures. A note book is all that is needed. Farmers' Week has been arranged so that many farmers could leave their farms during the slack season. The men in charge guarantee that the results of information gained at Farmers' Week will mean hundreds of dollars in the next few years to every man who attends. Write for a complete program.

At the first of the year, according to a government estimate, there were 198,577,000 farm animals in the United States, a gain in a year of about 7,922,000.

The machine and buggy collided with considerable force, hurling the occupants of the buggy into the road. Mr. Jurey stopped his machine and offered to take them to the office of a physician, but their injuries consisted of only a few bruises.

INJURED DOG; IS ORDERED BEFORE JUSTICE SCOTT

It was only a bull pup, whose name never appeared in the list of those given in magazines under the title, "Pedigrees," yet to Joseph Brown, residing in Gainer avenue, a pioneer resident of Newark, its value was more than all the blue ribbon entries in the world.

"Bud" was the sole companion to Mr. Brown when the elderly gentleman strolled forth in the mornings for his little walk. When the master called, the dog would bring him little trinkets that he might designate. They were together constantly and each day witnessed a new trick that "Bud" could perform. It was when the master while on his morning walk would tire and sit by the road side to rest, that "Bud" would come and nestle close to his side. The approach of a stranger was the signal for a growl, but so long as the master stroked his head, the dog remained quiet.

Wednesday, Mr. Brown and "Bud" took their usual walk and "Bud" was more playful than ever. Upon their return home Mr. Brown engaged himself in taking care of some minor chores. "Bud" was playing in the yard. A shot followed by a cry of pain startled Mr. Brown. It was "Bud's" cry.

Running into the street, the master found his pal in the throes of death, a nasty gunshot wound in his head. The dog crawled to his master's feet, but his effort to bestow his usual caress was unsuccessful and he sank to the road.

Mr. Brown was unable to shoot the dog and Humane Officer J. P. Harris was called. When Harris arrived he found "Bud" still alive. A well directed shot ended the canine's misery, but added to that of the master.

A warrant was issued by Justice Fletcher S. Scott for the arrest of William Glassmeier of Orchard street, on complaint of Officer Harris. Glassmeier was notified to appear in Scott's court Thursday afternoon to answer to a charge of cruelty to animals.

Constable Chas. Moore stated that Glassmeier did not claim the dog attacked him. Moore says according to Glassmeier's statement the dog was following Glassmeier who turned and fired a shot into its head. Then, Moore says, Glassmeier continued on his way home instead of stopping to see if the dog was dead.

WRESTLING BOUT STARTS AT 8:15; GOOD SEAT SALE

With a good sale of seats to indicate that a large crowd will be present, final details of arrangements for the Pardella-Bowser bout at the Music Hall tonight have been completed. The wrestlers in the preliminary will go to the mat at 8:15 o'clock. This will be followed by the main bout. It is possible that the preliminary will be allowed to go to a finish, instead of limiting it as was the case last week.

Young Pardella, Warren, Pa., wrestler, who arrived in Newark with his trainer yesterday, claims to be in good condition for this match and Bowser has been putting on the finishing touches of his preparations. A long walk today was the final stunt.

Bowser will wrestle in Columbus Friday night.

BOWSER TO MEET MASKED WRESTLER AT THE LYCEUM

Columbus, O., Dec. 16.—Manager Martin of the Lyceum Theatre has announced a novel match at the Lyceum Friday night in the form of a wrestling contest between Paul Bowser of Newark and "Gotch's Unknown," a masked wrestler will appear against Bowser and wrestle to a finish, giving the mat game fans. In addition to a good bit of sport, a chance to decide for themselves as to who he may be. Interest in wrestling game has grown among Lyceum patrons, the coming here of Demetrial having helped a great deal.

outlay estimated at more than $16,000,000.

No authoritative statement has been made of the terms of peace. It is understood that many knotty problems remain to be decided by the conferees. Chief among them is that involved in the demand of President Gilmore that organized baseball must take over the $380,000 payroll of the Federal league.

News that the American league in its Chicago session yesterday agreed to the peace terms formulated by National and Federal league members here was welcomed by the members of both leagues. President Gilmore of the Federal league said:

"A Federal league committee will always be ready to treat with the organized baseball forces. We have recognized Ban Johnson as the big man in organized baseball councils and I am glad that he sees the light. I thought that he would at the time, simply as a business proposition, if nothing else.

"We realize that a continuation of baseball war means harm to the game and we are glad there seems to be a prospect of settlement. But the Federal league finds itself in a rather comfortable position today. If there is a desire on the part of the opposition to continue the fight, we are ready. If they want peace we are ready and willing to treat.

"We closed our option on our New York property yesterday. The option had run out and we had either to buy or quit. There is no chance of a twenty-third run out on the part of organized baseball."

When asked the terms of settlement, Mr. Gilmore said:

"You could not expect me to say anything about that right now. There is only one thing upon which I know we will insist. Every ball player who came with us and thus brought themselves under the ban of organized baseball will be protected. The settlement may mean that the Federal league will pass out of existence and it may not. All that will be up to a committee of the different factions."

Harry F. Sinclair said:
"I am for peace, but not peace at any price. I am deeply interested in the Federal league and I will have to be satisfied. This is the sentiment of all the owners of Federal league. Unanimous consent will have to be had before action can be taken."

Some of the baseball players who are here watching the progress of the peace negotiations are apprehensive as to the result affecting them.

Many Federal league players fear they will be out of a job next season, while others of the two big leagues expect to have to play for less money than heretofore.

MAY BE SETTLED BY SATURDAY NIGHT

(ASSOCIATED PRESS TELEGRAM)
Chicago, Dec. 16.—Members of the peace committee of the American league named at the league's meeting here last night, are to leave for New York City today to attend a conference there tomorrow with committees of the National and Federal leagues, which it is expected peace in the baseball world will be declared.

Indications are, it is said, that all details will be settled by Saturday night. The American league committee is composed of Charles A. Comiskey of Chicago, B. S. Minor of Washington, J. J. Lannin of Boston, and R. B. Johnson, president of the league, who will act as chairman.

Although the peace proposals have been kept secret, it is said that Chas. H. Weegham, president of the Chicago Federals will come into control of the Chicago National League club.

Card of Thanks.
I desire to thank all my friends and neighbors for their help and sympathy during the sickness and burial of my husband. Also for the floral tributes.—Elizabeth Blinn.

SANTA'S TIRED!

When Jane Fixes the Knickknacks

LIKE to loaf in the kitchen while Jane in her wifely way is putting the finish on knickknacks for the dinner on Christmas day. Say, tell me early o' mornin', when the cockspit's shimmerin' low. An' the toasters is crowin' for daybreak—like you, else don't know—An' our cat's at the white curtain window the stars is beginnin' to fade. An' the hills that was hid in darkness is at last comin' out of the shade. Directly a nice settles, so plain it is mighty to be seen. An' the past stand together, with surely a hint between. Fer I feel awfully tender—in a glad, half sad sort of way—While Jane is fixin' the knickknacks for the dinner on Christmas day.

A person don't never, I reckon, disremember the old folks at home. No matter how feeble he grows on no matter how old he may be. An' they say pretty clear at each minute, true an' brave as it does go by. Till I push my chair in the saddle—d-d, it's too much in my eye. I see the old face of my father as he reads by the candlestick there. An' I hear some hymn of my mother as she reads in the history chair. Then the light falls on the ceiling with the rose of the old time glow. As I dream of dreams of the future 'mid o' dreams of the past. Heigh ho! We're a world o' changes from the lad to the man now grown. Watch! Jane as she fixes knickknacks for the dinner on Christmas day!

Then my thoughts travels on an' onward from this where the old folks live. An' I wonder if our own children is thinkin' o' Jane an' me. If they heard some organ soundin' the song "Do They Miss Me at Home?" Through the holy Christmas mornin', through the holy Christmas mornin', if they heard their children shoutin' in pleasure be lie their toys. Would they think on a more of the home-land, where they lived when girls an' boys. The young was the world before 'em, but for us it's the land—A dim, dear land o' memories, where even I lie in mind. Wee, faded clothes in the attic, broken toys long laid away. As I watch Jane fixin' knickknacks for the dinner on Christmas day.

ELECTRIC CHRISTMAS GIFTS.

Still New Enough to Have Novelty Element Dear to Americans.

Electric Christmas gifts still possess that element of novelty dear to the American heart and thus solve the problem of giving Christmas gifts that are "different." Imagine how pleased most men would be to receive an electric shaving cup or electric cigar lighter instead of neckties, socks and handkerchiefs "as usual."

A teakettle for grandmother, a samovar for mother's 5 o'clock teas, a chafin dish for the college girl, a disk stove for the bachelor, a flatiron or sewing machine motor for the practical housewife—all these novel and useful gifts will be appreciated by the recipients.

It should not be forgotten that these electric Christmas gifts are all useful gifts. Each of these devices is designed to do some one thing better than it can be done any other way, whether it is to percolate coffee, toast bread or furnish the power for running a sewing machine.

The presence of an electric percolator on any table adds a touch of something different and something better. The electric tea samovar is rapidly becoming quite the thing for the modern tea table.

"Wassail! Drinkal!" The wassail bowl, which is still used in some old European families at Christmas, succeeded the skull of the Norseman's foe as a drinking vessel. In these old wassail bowls, some specimens of which are of brown ware and others of massive silver, were placed the ale, the ginger, the sugar, the nutmeg and the roasted crab apples. Where the old custom still prevails the ale is served spiced and sweetened in the wassail bowl, but the apples are omitted.

Still Bring in the Boar's Head. The ancient Christmas ceremony of bringing in the boar's head is regularly performed on Christmas afternoon in the hall of Queen college, Oxford, England. The head is borne in on a silver dish, shoulder high, at the end of a procession formed by the college choir, accompanied for the occasion singing "The Boar's Head Song."

A worm is in the bud of youth, and at the root of age.—Cowper.

GEO. LITTLE

FORMER MANAGER OF JACK JOHNSON IS "BROKE" AND TENDING BAR

Was Well Known in This City and Formerly Lived at Lancaster, Ohio.

Chicago, Ill., Dec. 16.—George Little, known as the "Diamond King," and who was the first manager for Jack Johnson, deposed champion prize fighter of the world, is "broke." Little was discovered today behind a bar in a South Side saloon. He at one time was reputed to have been worth $300,000 and was influential in First Ward politics.

At one time he wore a perfect white diamond stud and ring said to have weighed 10 carats each. These two diamonds were valued at $6,000 and are said to have been the largest ever worn by any man in Chicago.

Today, as he stood behind the bar and served drinks, Little had in the place of a $3,000 diamond stud a little imitation ruby stud valued at $1 and his fingers were jewelled.

Little, who gave nightly wine suppers "to the boys," stopped these "functions" when he began to meet with reverses. The whirl of the roulette wheel, faro and race horses spelled doom for Little.

Little proved an unlucky gambler. He also proved to be an unfortunate business man.

He was induced to become a circus owner through his friend "Bunk" Allen. Visions of crowding out Dingling Brothers appeared before him. But at the end of the year the "Allen-Little" circus went "broke" and Little found himself $50,000 on the debit side of the ledger.

After his career as a circus man he began to meet with reverses rapidly.

George Little is well known in this city and has frequently been the guest of local friends. He was formerly located at Lancaster, O., and when he first took the management of Jack Johnson, made a fortune with the big black champion.

Several years ago when Charles Henry, Charles Schaller, George Bader and Harvey Marple attended the Johnson-Jeffries battle at Reno, they spent several evenings with Little at San Francisco, and the manager who had just broken with Johnson, predicted exactly what would happen at Reno, and it came true. Carl Herman of this city, joined the Newark party at San Francisco, and journeyed with them to Reno. Mr. Herman and Mr. Little were also well acquainted.

15 YEARS AGO TODAY.

(From Advocate, Sunday.) Gen. I. R. Sherwood of Toledo, was in the city today calling on Judge Taylor and other friends. The Investigator club met on Monday afternoon with Mrs. E. F. Appy at her home on Tenth street. The Newark Steam Laundry will be closed for a while in order to finish the improvements now in progress.

The World War a Year Ago Today—Dec. 16.

Detachments from the German cruiser squadron made a sortie from the Baltic sea across the North sea and bombarded the towns of Scarborough, Whitby and Hartlepool, on the east coast of England, inflicting casualties of nearly 700 killed and wounded, chiefly civilians.

Austrians recaptured Bochnia, twenty-five miles east of Cracow, from the Russians.

German reported repulse of allied attacks in northern Belgium and various points in France, notably La Bassée and Soissons; also defeat and retreat of Russians all over Poland.

DENIED ASSERTIONS FOREIGN NEWSPAPERS REGARDING WAR LOANS.

(ASSOCIATED PRESS TELEGRAM) Berlin, Dec. 14.—(Delayed.)—Dr. Karl Helfferich, secretary of the Imperial treasury, in his speech today in the Reichstag in support of the bill for a supplementary war credit of 10,000,000,000 marks, ($2,500,000,000) denied flatly assertions made by newspapers in foreign countries that the success of the German war loans was fictitious and made possible only by the loans of subscribers through the war credits banks. He stated that the total loans by these institutions was 1,600,000,000 marks ($400,000,000) as compared with over 25,000,000,000 marks ($6,250,000,000) in subscriptions.

FIRST DOSE ENDS INDIGESTION, HEARTBURN, GAS ON STOMACH

The question as to how long you are going to continue a sufferer from indigestion, dyspepsia or out-of-order stomach is merely a matter of how soon you begin taking Tonaline Tablets.

People with weak stomachs should take Tonaline Tablets occasionally, and there will be no more indigestion, no feeling like a lump of lead in the stomach, no heartburn, sour risings, gas or stomach, or belching of undigested food, headaches, dizziness or sick stomach; and besides, what you eat will not ferment and poison your breath with nauseous odors. All these symptoms resulting from a sour, out-of-order stomach and dyspepsia are generally relieved five minutes after taking Tonaline Tablets.

Go to your druggist and get a 15 day's treatment. Tonaline Tablets and you will always go to the table with a hearty appetite, and what you eat will taste good, because your stomach and intestines will be clean and fresh, and you will know there are not going to be any more bad nights and miserable days for you. Tonaline tabs freshen you and make you feel like life is worth living. Tonaline Tablets cost $1.00 for a 15 days' treatment.

ASHBROOK'S BILL FOR A PENSION TO SQUIRREL HUNTERS

Washington, Dec. 16.—Representative William A. Ashbrook of Johnstown, O., yesterday introduced a bill to pay Ohio "Squirrel Hunters," the men who rallied to defend Cincinnati against a Morgan raid during the civil war, at the rate of $8 a month and upwards. Men now more than 62 years old are to receive higher rates of pension. The bill has been introduced in previous sessions. The Ohio legislature at its last session appropriated one month's pay for each of the "Squirrel Hunters." Ashbrook said there were about 25,000 in Ohio.

DIGGS, DIVORCED, MARRIES GIRL IN CALIFORNIA

San Francisco, Cal., Dec. 16.—Maury I. Diggs, who, with F. Drew Caminetti, was convicted in Federal Court of violation of the Mann act, last night married, at Oakland, Miss Martha Warrington, with whom he made the trip from Sacramento, Cal., to Reno, Nev., that was used as the basis of his conviction.

At the time of the elopement, two years ago, both Diggs and Caminetti, who is a son of Anthony Caminetti, Commissioner General of Immigration, were married. After a sensational trial, in which Miss Warrington and the other girl, who made the fourth member of the party testified, the two young men were found to be guilty and sentenced to prison. Diggs for two years and Caminetti for eighteen months.

Both still are at liberty, under bail on a writ of certiorari granted by the United States Supreme Court. Diggs recently was divorced.

WILL NOT NEED TO STOP CARS AT WEST ZANESVILLE

(ASSOCIATED PRESS TELEGRAM) Columbus, Dec. 16.—The Ohio Electric railway company, was freed Wednesday from the necessity of stopping cars regularly at the crossing of the B. & O. railroad at West Zanesville, by an order of the utilities commission. Hereafter the railroad will have to stop its occasional trains at this crossing and send a man ahead before proceeding.

BUT HE DID

They tell this one on a Mrs. Jones or perhaps it was a Mrs. Smith, a woman who is very considerate about other people. There's nobody to vouch for the truth of the tale so it may be simply a little joke told by one of the Newark Trust Company boys at the expense of another who has his "ups and downs" in the world.

They say that Mrs. Smith or Mrs. Jones or whoever she was went into the Trust building this morning to consult one of the able lawyers who had offices on one of the higher floors. The door of the cage opened but the woman hesitated.

"Aren't you going up ma'am?" the elevator boy asked. Mrs. Jones or Mrs. Smith or whoever she was looked the young man over carefully and eyed his slender figure, then thought of her own ample proportions.

"Yes, I am, son," she replied with a smile. "But, my sakes, a little fellow like you can't pull me up in that thing!"

But he did!

"Was it your craving for drink that brought you here?" asked the sympathetic visitor at the jail. "Great Scott, ma'am! Do I look so stupid as to mistake this place for a saloon?"—Buffalo Courier.

Theatres

Musical Comedy, Adele.

The attraction at the Hartman theatre, Columbus, on Christmas afternoon and night, will be that delightful musical success, "Adele." This long awaited musical comedy was produced at the Longacre theatre, New York City, where it sprang at once into high popular favor.

Like so many other American musical successes, "Adele" was adapted from the German for the American stage. The authors of the original piece, also, wrote "Alma, Where Do You Live?" "Adele" was arranged for New York production by Adolf Philipp and Edward A. Paulton.

The libretto has for its heroine, a young French girl, who, though in love with her father's business partner, finds the objections to this marriage too strong to be overcome. She therefore consents to marry a nobleman, who promises to allow his wife to obtain an almost immediate separation, so she can marry her first sweetheart.

All goes very well until the young woman finds out she prefers her husband to her sweetheart after learning to know each other better, and in the end all snarls are untangled in the merriest kind of a manner.

The book of the play contains an abundance of bright and sparkling lines, while the humor is pungent in quality. As for the music, everyone has heard it, for it is the kind that lingers long in the memory, and is whistled and hummed from one end of the country to the other. The piece is in three acts, each one of which is a perfect vision of beautiful stage settings and accessories. Costumings for the play are also exceptionally beautiful and artistic. The company which will be seen at the Hartman includes a number of unusually clever musical comedy favorites among the principals, and there is too, a chorus which can not only look extremely attractive, but which can also sing and dance.

Passing Show of 1915.

In theatrical parlance, the term "New York Winter Garden" is a synonym for magnitude and opulence. It means that the productions which bear this label are the biggest and the most lavish in point of scenic investiture and sartorial adornment that are ever seen on the stage. It also means the greatest aggregation of entertainers that can be put together in one performance. Hence the coming to Columbus of any Winter Garden entertainment is the signal for preparation to see the biggest and the best.

It was four years ago that the New York Winter Garden started its series of "Passing Show" attractions. Each year the "Passing Show" has grown and improved until finally this year "The Passing Show of 1915" is said to exceed all in point of brilliancy, wonderful effects, beauty and cast. When it is seen at the Southern theatre, Columbus for three days, beginning December 20, with matinees Tuesday and Wednesday, it will come direct from extensive engagements in Chicago and New York. No changes or deletions have been made in the production and local play-goers will enjoy the novelty of seeing a New York production exactly as it was seen in New York.

In the rank of entertainers are such well known favorites as George Monroe, Eugene and Willie Howard, Daphne Pollard, Marilyn Miller, John T. Murray, Helen Eley, Miller and Mack, Margaret Ward, Ernest Hare, Ruth Cooper, Marie Flood, Edmund Goulding, Theodore Kosloff, Clarence Harvey, Rodion Mendeloff, Sam Hearne and Dixie Gerard. Of course there is the usual Winter Garden beauty chorus of 80 girls and the runway through the auditorium.

Alhambra, Friday and Saturday.
"The Prince and the Pauper" is one of the most delightful and thoroughly enjoyable of Mark Twain's many works. It is a film that will be appreciated by young folks of all ages, for in its merriest and clever humor, with its dashes of dramatic thrills that frequently sweep the spectator off his feet, as it were, only to replace him with a laugh, the story combines all the elements of a great artistic triumph such as can be conceived only by the mind of a master, and adequately interpreted only by a star of the unusual ability of Miss Clark.

The photoplay catches with unerring fidelity the spirit of the great author, transferring to the screen the indefinable wealth of rich humor which has made the story a household treasure, beloved by everyone to whom it is familiar.

Marguerite Clark, who is featured in the dual role of the "Prince and the Pauper", reaches the artistic climax of her career in her marvelous interpretation of these distinctly different, yet closely associated characters. Her exquisite artistry was never displayed to better advantage than in her spirited enacting of the charming prince and her sympathetic portrayal of the pathetic little beggar.

The film has given unlimited opportunity for the display of directorial skill in the use of the double exposure in those scenes which show both of the youthful characters on the screen at the same time. Marvelous illusions have been created by the art of the camera which far surpasses in realism and interest the limitations of the stage that forced the use in the theatre of a plot which permitted the appearance of only one of the characters on the stage at one time. Photography has rendered possible strict adherence to the original of the charming tale, and in the future it will be to the motion picture that the public will turn for the greatest enjoyment of the story which it has learned so to love and revere.

"The Prince and the Pauper" is the latest Paramount Picture, and will be the attraction at the Alhambra Friday and Saturday and should attract a record-breaking attendance.

Worse than a bloody hand is a hard heart.—Shelley.

HOW TO GET RID OF CHRONIC DANDRUFF

The only sure way to get permanently rid of either oily or dry dandruff is to remove the conditions that cause it and then keep the hair and scalp in a permanent, clean, healthy, vigorous state so dandruff will never return. This beats shampoos or head washes which merely drive away dandruff for a few days at most. W. A. Erman and a number of other better druggists in this vicinity are now strongly recommending a harmless, inexpensive and quick acting preparation called Parisian Sage that they say is guaranteed to act directly on the cause of dandruff and which already has become known far and wide as a safe and efficient treatment which cannot possibly injure hair or scalp.

Here is a test worth trying. Get a package of Parisian Sage. Rub a little of it into the scalp with the finger tips and see for yourself how the dandruff disappears, the hair stops falling out, the itching vanishes, and a new and vigorously healthy appearance comes over the hair. Good looking hair is half the battle in any man or woman's personal appearance and nothing hurts the hair more than dandruff. Try a little Parisian Sage and begin at once to be rid of it.

BLADENSBURG MAN CHANGES HIS PLEA, GOES TO PRISON

Warren C. Norris, superintendent of schools at Bladensburg, Knox county, was sentenced to pay a fine of $50 and costs and serve seven months in the Delaware county jail yesterday at Columbus by Federal Judge Sater. Norris changed his plea to guilty to the indictment of using the mails to defraud.

The indictment charged that Norris advertised in poultry journals under the name of W. C. Norris & Son, declaring that he hatched, raised and marketed chicks and ducklings on a large scale.

Federal authorities found that he had but a few chickens and that the son referred to in the firm name was but 14 years old.

Address of Dr. Charles F. Aked Delivered on Henry Ford Peace Ship, Oscar II, on Way to Europe

S. S. Oscar II, Via Cape Race, N. F., Dec. 16.—Following is an address by Dr. Charles F. Aked, pastor of the First Congregational Church of San Francisco, California, delivered in the Ford Peace Ship, Dr. Aked chose his text; Acts 26, 13 "And on the Sabbath day we went forth without the city by a riverside where we supposed there was a place of prayer and we sat down and spake unto the women that were come together." They were in Europe at last; they had passed south of what are now the blood stained hills of Armenia; they had passed through that part of Asia Minor where the Turks and the British are contending in this hour; they had taken ship at a ford but a few miles to the south of the extreme point of the Gallipoli Peninsula, the sands of which are being watered by the best blood of Australia and Canada. They had sailed past the island Santhracia and had landed at a little European port in the country now called Bulgaria, and from there made their way to Philipp, a city lying somewhat to the north and east of Salonika. They were in Europe at last. Paul had longed with a great longing for this hour; for years he had thought it, dreamed it, planned for it; several times had been baffled in his attempt to make the journey, but at last, and for the first time in his life, his feet stood on European soil. He had come with vast ambitions, ambitions more vast than had ever surged within the brain of any one of the world conquerors before. This day continental ambitions were his, the little world of Palestine was nothing to him; he must win the world for Christ he lived, and when he lived he lived with every drop of blood in his veins; he lived intensely; he lived with every breath of his untamed heart; he lived with every output of his inexhaustible energy; he lived to confront hostile mobs, to convince baffling foes, to wrest the thoughts of philosophers from dead systems, to the idea of the eternal good set fore to the drooping energies of thief and slave in the slums of Rome, while shaking the throne of the Caesars; he lived to bridge roaring seas and tunnel mountain barriers between race and race; he lived to impress his own personality upon his day so profoundly to influence the policies and destinies of mankind until his hour. This was Paul and this solid earth of ours has never shaken beneath the footfall of a greater man than he, and in this hour of vast ambitions soaring through his soul, realizing the dream of years he stands at last on European ground and he begins his work of winning Europe by holding a prayer meeting with a few women on the river bank. Well! now is this the way to win a world, is that the way to convince the continent of Europe! He found a few women like minded with himself. They held a prayer meeting; is this the way in which to win a world? Is it not a story written in all characters of failure? Are these the resources of omnipotence? Is this the best that can be attempted by a man of brain and heart like his? Was there ever small beginning of a vastness so vast of a greatness, so incredible and so inconceivable? Yet it is a story that is constantly repeated in the history of moral enterprise. Thomas Clarkson was a student at Cambridge, he had won distinction and had taken many prizes and the Chancellor's gold medal for English composition was offered that year for the best essay on this proposition. "Is it right to enslave men against their will?" Clarkson knew very little indeed about the slave question; he had only interested himself in a little and only a little, but he had won academic distinctions and prizes and had coveted more. He prepared himself for this essay; he was going home; it was the end of the term; he was riding the only means of travel in that day, and as he rode he thought. He thought "is it right to enslave men against their will?" have proved to my own satisfaction that it is not. If it is not, it is wrong, if it is wrong it ought to be stopped, if it ought to be stopped some body will have to stop it, and if somebody will have to stop it "why should I not try?" and he got down out of the saddle and tied up his horse, and the place is shown to the tourists now where Thomas Clarkson knelt down under the tree, consecrated his life to the destruction of the slave traffic and slavery throughout the world; stop that hour the Wilberforce enterprise in England, the Lloyd Garrison agitation, the Wendell Phillips oration, John Brown in the terrible fields of Abraham Lincoln's heroic life and martyr's death. All these were embryonic in that very hour when Clarkson knelt and vowed himself to the destruction of slavery on earth.

And I have seen the United States of America with its hundred of millions of people, with its power of today and its promise of tomorrow visibly growing up before my eyes, out of their fidelity to conscience and God. What a pitifully small beginning, but the United States stands today and while our flag is flying, there will abide this world shaking testimony to the infinitely great possibility of small things, that are grounded in facts and hope and love. What of this America which they found and which they founded? The manifest destiny of the American people is the phrase so hackneyed, that the blaise listener to Fourth of July orations cannot give it more than a passing thought again. That is the manifest destiny of the American people. What is it, except to build up life on truer and nobler foundation, than the world ever laid, the manifest destiny of the American people is to evolve nobler type of manhood and womanhood than the old world has ever known. The mission of America is the peace of all mankind. This war has to end someday, it cannot go on for ever. Some day, sooner or later, a number of elderly gentlemen representing the warring nations will have to gather round a table and talk about terms of peace. Civilization cannot go on eating her own children, for the months and for the years and forever. It has to end. Europe is painting itself termination; its own heart's blood instead of crimson madness has descended upon the nations of the world. But, this canchinery cannot be the last word of Twentieth Century Science; humanity cannot tolerate it; God in his heaven cannot bear it forever, and who knows, but what we ourselves may bring those diplomats and rulers and statesmen around their table, face to face, to talk things over quietly, little sooner than they would have done, if Henry Ford had not brought us upon this ship. Shall say, what is to be the effect upon the mind of mankind, of this demonstration that he is giving of a belief, in something mightier, than all the powers of the embattled hosts. Wordsworth believed, that the power of armies is a visible thing, formal and circumscribed in time and place. Judge then, what is the power of a mind like Mr. Ford's, and the power of a faith like his and ours, and are making, to what is likest good within the soul of men and women, we make our appeal to that, which is stronger than earth and as enduring as Heaven. Principle, Humanity, Brotherhood, Conscience, Faith, Hope, Love, and in this appeal, we cannot fail.

What is to come from this mission of ours, I do not know; what effect it is going to have on the minds of the rulers of nations? I do not know, my mind is a blank as to this. Until Saturday, I never saw Mr. Ford, I do not know his plans; I do not know what is in the mind of any one of you; I do not know what we are setting out to accomplish; I do not know, how we propose to accomplish it, but, I am certain, as I am of my own existence, that good and lasting good and only good will come of it. You cannot get hundreds of earnest men and women, brave, self reliant, enthusiastic, devoted to the best interests of their fellows, gathered from the United States and from the Neutral nations of Europe. You cannot get hundreds of such men and women, as these; the thinkers, the workers, the idealists, the newspapers; men and women of the world, when this war is ended, without something resulting, which will some day transform and transfigure the face of the earth. And our mission can be described in the language of George Washington, himself. It may be, that the man who has brought us here, whose brain pondered this thing, and who covered by the implacable despotism of his own humanity, has led us on, will rank with the Washingtons and with the Lincolns of history. In the years when not merely a nation but

THE VALUE OF TRUTH

Truth in business is just as important as truth in every-day life; truth creates confidence, establishes good-will and builds a reliability that will not be wrecked by the storms of competition. Through three generations people have learned to place reliance on the advertised words of Scott's Emulsion, because they are untarnished, unexaggerated truisms about a household remedy of real and actual worth.

The popularity of Scott's Emulsion is increasing as intelligence advances, because in these days of adulterations it continues to guarantee pure cod liver oil medicinally perfected with glycerine and hypophosphites to build strength, improve the blood and strengthen the lungs. It is free from alcohol or opiates—a wholesome food-tonic, truthfully advertised.

Scott & Downe, Bloomfield, N. J. 15-2

all humanity shall rise up to call him blessed and Washington's work stands sure, we will erect a standard, to which the wise and good may repair, the issue shall be in the hands of God. In Denmark, in Sweden, in Norway, and then at last, at The Hague will erect a standard, to which the wise and the good of the Neutral nations may repair. The issue for a world at war, shall be in the hands of God.

Lloyd Garrison was dragged through the streets of Boston with a rope round his neck. Do you know how it is told in the life of Otis, when the mayor of Boston that when home people came to him and complained of Garrison's little paper devoted to the cause of the slave, he had the police make an investigation. And they reported to the mayor that they found that the whole of the printing staff and the reporters' staff consisted of Garrison himself and a negro boy, and that the subscribers, a few ignorant persons of all colors. James Russell Lowell, the poet prophet of two Democracies has described the scene as in a small chamber, friendless and unseen. Toiled over his types, one poor unknown young man; the place was dark, unfurnished, and men mean, but there the future of a race began, help came but slowly. Surely no man yet set to the weary world with less. What need of help he knew how types are set. He had a dauntless spirit, and a push and Lowell's comment is not less striking; think of it as we start upon such a mission of ours. All small beginnings are great and strong, based on a faithful heart and weariless brain ye build the future fair. Ye conquer wrong. Ye win the crown and wear it not in vain. Or can we not take an illustration even greater than this. The echoes of Thanksgiving day are only just dying out of our ears, and soon we shall be celebrating Forefathers Day. We shall think of the little ship that crossed somewhere on the very course that we are on. A few miles further north perhaps we shall think of the little boat, of about three hundred tons, as against our sixteen thousand tons, the boat that brought over this same Atlantic the Pilgrim Fathers and Mothers of New England. There were one hundred and two of them when they landed among the woods and wilderness of Massachusetts; there were only fifty-two who celebrated the first Thanksgiving day. During the terrible winter, frozen, starving, their supplies exhausted, one died every other day. The survivors dug the graves of those who died, but they did not dare to raise a mound over those graves, lest the hostile Indians looking from the hills above could see the graves multiply and know how small the garrison was and should feel themselves strong enough to attack. The winter wore away; the summer came; they reaped their first harvest; twelve months had passed since they landed and they held their first Thanksgiving day. We celebrate it as they celebrated it. First in the morning a religious service then a midday dinner then athletic sports. I have stood on the top of Burial Hill beneath which the ashes of these heroes sleep and I have thought that I could see right across the continent, right across the Pacific shore, over mountain and prairie and teeming city, where free men live and right across this Atlantic back to the shores of Holland from which they had sailed to which we are steaming, back to the old England from which some of us came.

Don't Merely "Stop" a Cough

Stop the Thing that Causes It and the Cough will Stop Itself

A cough is really one of our best friends. It warns us that there is inflammation or obstruction in a dangerous place. Therefore, when you get a bad cough don't proceed to dose yourself with a lot of drugs that merely "stop" the cough temporarily by deadening the throat nerves. Treat the cause—heat the inflamed membranes. Here is a home-made remedy that gets right at the cause and will make an obstinate cough vanish more quickly than you ever thought possible.

Put 2½ ounces of Pinex (50 cents worth) in a pint bottle and fill the bottle with plain granulated sugar syrup. This gives you a full pint of the most pleasant and effective cough remedy you ever used, at a cost of only 54 cents. No bother to prepare. Full directions with Pinex.

It heals the inflamed membranes so gently and promptly that you wonder how it does it. Also loosens a dry, hoarse or tight cough and stops the formation of phlegm in the throat and bronchial tubes, thus ending the persistent loose cough.

Pinex is a highly concentrated compound of Norway pine extract, rich in vitamin, and is famous the world over for its healing effect on the membranes.

To avoid disappointment, ask your druggist for "2½ ounces of Pinex," and don't accept anything else. A guarantee of absolute satisfaction, or money promptly refunded, goes with this preparation. The Pinex Co., Ft. Wayne, Ind.

HORNING SENTENCED TO PRISON

Dresden Banker Must Serve Thirteen Years in the Penitentiary at Moundsville.

Columbus, O., Dec. 16.—As a penalty for wrecking the Dresden National bank, of which he was cashier, John Horning must serve 13 years in the penitentiary at Moundsville, W. Va. Sentence was passed on the ex-banker Wednesday afternoon by Judge Sater of the United States district court.

When Horning appeared in court to plead guilty he was accompanied by his wife, his counsel, Attorney E.
F. O'Neal of Zanesville, and Attorney Paul Bainter, Dresden, who has been representing Mrs. Horning. Beyond his formal plea of guilty, Horning made no statement in court. Following a summing up of the case against the prisoner by the district attorney, a brief statement was made in Horning's behalf by Attorney O'Neal.

In passing sentence Judge Sater did not lecture the prisoner. Two indictments containing 19 counts were returned against Horning. In each instance the charge was misapplication of the bank's funds and falsification of accounts. The penalty for each offense is not less than five years imprisonment, at the discretion of the court. Horning is past 60, and in consideration of his age Judge Sater sentenced him to serve seven years on the charges contained in one indictment and six years on the other.

Horning appeared to be dazed by the action of the court. It will be remembered that when he was arrested at Lancaster in last September he expressed his opinion that he would be able to live in Fort Leavenworth, which, with good behavior allowance, would mean perhaps not more than two years actual imprisonment. But 13 years in Moundsville appears to have been something entirely beyond his calculations.

Public opinion in Zanesville and in Dresden as expressed Wednesday evening when the sentence was imposed upon Horning, heartily approved the action of the court.

In a very few instances persons were heard to remark that the ex-banker deserved more, but the majority took the view that at his age a sentence of 13 years in the penitentiary means practically a sentence for life.

In this connection, it is stated upon reliable authority, that several of Horning's victims recently seriously considered the proposition of presenting a petition to Judge Sater asking that the court inflict upon Horning the full penalty of the law.
Even his own relatives were among his victims and the number of those anxious to see him severely punished.

Horning spent Wednesday night in the Franklin county jail and will probably not be taken to Moundsville until Friday morning. It is believed that the sentencing of the defaulting cashier will end the criminal prosecution in the Dresden bank failure, but it is possible that civil actions may be instituted by creditors to recover on their claims. The shortage of $100,000 in the bank's accounts is not nearly equalled by the assets of the institution and of Horning's estate.

MANY TROUBLES DUE TO WEAK KIDNEYS

"It is no use advertising a medicine unless the medicine itself is good enough to back up the claims you make for it. On the other hand it is a pleasure for druggists to sell a medicine when customers come in afterward and tell how much good it has done them. And that is why druggists like to sell and recommend Solvax, the great kidney remedy. Ever since we first introduced Solvax drug clerks have been so busy selling it that it is sometimes hard to keep a sufficient stock on hand. Moreover Solvax is always sold on a positive guarantee of relief to the kidney sufferer or money back. This may seem rash but users have said so many good words in favor of Solvax that it is not expected that many packages will be returned."

This shows great faith in Solvax.
It really is a most unusual medicine because it overcomes the worst cases of kidney complaints by removing the cause. It goes straight to the seat of the trouble. It soaks right in and cleans out the kidneys and makes them pass off all the uric acid and poisonous waste matter that lodges in the joints and muscles causing rheumatic pains; soothes and heals the bladder and quickly ends all such troubles.

Nothing is more uncomfortable or hurts a person's perfect enjoyment of life more than troublesome kidneys and their attending evils. Use Solvax and begin to get your full measure of benefit out of life. Sold by T. J. Evans and other leading druggists in this vicinity.
